

Platte Valley Community Center

Photos provided by Platte Valley Community Center

WESTERN FLAIR WITH A MODERN TWIST

“Not just a building...a Destination”

Located in scenic Saratoga, Wyoming, at the foot of the Snowy Mountain Range, the Platte Valley Community Center combines a world-class facility with true western hospitality. Saratoga is known as a “peaceful mountain town without stoplights,” a surprisingly perfect place for a top-notch conference, special event, and community education center. The quaint community features unlimited outdoor activities, ample accommodations, gorgeous scenery and a full-service private airport. Visit the center’s impressive website (below), view its calendar full of educational and entertaining events, and you’ll see why this is a community center unlike any other!

The center, which opened in September 2007, is designed as “Western, with a Modern Twist”. Its modern conveniences include a 5,300 square ft. theater, 11,200 square ft. Great Hall with a full-sized commercial kitchen, computer lab, meeting rooms and more. Director Stephanie Jeffers shares, “The PVCC offers more than a place to hold all types of events.” Besides special events, the center hosts educational and recreational classes, even a business incubator for budding entrepreneurs looking to expand their business!

Stephanie Jeffers’ attention to detail and level of service she provides are top-notch. Stephanie and Billy of Rawlins recently held their wedding reception at the Platte Valley Community Center. Stephanie writes, “When I first met Stephanie we were still trying to decide on a time and location. She was kind enough to take us on a tour and pencil us in for a couple of dates we had in mind. As we debated on the date she contacted us as soon as someone else expressed an interest in those same weekends. She also had so many helpful tips: a list of other vendors, possible floor plans and a linen service. As a recent bride herself, Stephanie also did everything she could to make things easier. She was able to schedule us plenty of time for decorating and had a crew ready to rearrange the room as our rainy day backup!”

Many exciting new features are in store for the center in the future. “We are looking to begin a community concert series, and establishing videoconferencing,” Stephanie Jeffers says. “In the next couple of months, a permanent sound system will be installed in the theater, Great Hall and lobby areas to enhance events. A full stage lighting system is already in place in the theater.”

Visit the center’s website (below), for a detailed list of rental options, suggested caterers, a floor plan, and much more. See some of their rental features, including tables, chairs and set-up (included in room rental fee). Stop by the center and observe the beautiful architecture blended with modern convenience. Attend one of the unique events listed on their website calendar, and observe what a dynamic community center can bring to a quaint community that excels in Wyoming hospitality. Contact Stephanie Jeffers and learn more about how the Platte Valley Community Center can help you create the wedding you have always dreamed of. You are guaranteed to be impressed!

www.pvcenter.org 307-326-7822
Stephanie Jeffers, Director